Carrigan is ready for a big Christmas

Five months later with Carrigan

December 15, 2007

Carrigan will be 17 months old on Christmas day.

Carrigan has become such a very busy and happy little girl. Walking and running; saying new words every day (we are partial to the wonderful way she looks at us and says Da-Da); laughing with a deep wonderful joy; gently petting Kitty; waiting for Dad to come home from work each day and greeting him with a huge smile and hug; giving night-night hugs and blowing kisses...every day is huge. Over the past five months we visited with Stefanie and spent the day with her and Carrigan at Disneyland. We had wonderful visits with many of our friends and their children. Tommy joined the national board of directors for the Family Equality Council (formally known as Family Pride). At their national dinner in Los Angeles, Jeff rode the elevator and talked with Jamie Lee Curtis, the keynote speaker. She is just like you would hope should be; funny, warm and strong. We had a lot of fun over Halloween with Carrigan in her duck-duck costume attracting a crowd at Broadway at the Beach shopping center. We had a wonderful meal over Thanksgiving with Tommy's family at our cabin in Hendersonville, NC. Tommy's surgery on December 7th (heart catheter ablation) went very well and he is feeling better each day. And now we're ready for a big Christmas with Carrigan. Below, we show our favorite couple of pictures since July. Be sure to view a big bunch of new pictures that capture Carrigan over the past five months by clicking here.

We became fathers!

Our little girl Carrigan was born July 25, 2006. We've created this space to share our experience with you. After five years of challenges and setbacks, we found a path 18 months ago. Working with a great agency, selecting the anonymous egg donor, finding the perfect gestational surrogate, a whole lot of science from wonderful people, nine months with a lot of support and love from friends, family and co-workers...and now our miracle daughter is with us!

Be part of our experience by sharing this amazing time with us.
